REMARKABLE LIFE CAME TO AN END AT 6:15 O'CLOCK AFTER A SHORT ILLNESS.

FUNERAL THURSDAY AFTERNOON

Services Will Be Held At Home On Peoria Avenue At 2:30 In the Afternoon.

Col. Thomas Morgan, aged 94, one of the most remarkable men in this community, passed away at his home, 510 Peoria avenue, at 6:15 o'clock Tuesday evening after an illness which attacked him at Melford, Ind., where he went to attend a reunion of his old regiment, Sept. 10-11. He was brought home by his daughter at that time, but grew steadily weaker until the end.

Funeral Thursday.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, Rev. F. D. Stone, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating and with burial at Oakwood. The pall bearers will be: C. H. Noble, Charles Dye, S. W. Youngman, S. S. Dodge, L. W. Mitchell and G. G. Messer.

Interesting Life.

Col. Morgan's life was one of remarkable activity and interest, and from a small diary which he always carried with him, and in which he kept many of the gems of life which he encountered, is found a brief story of his career.

He was born in Monmouthshire, England, May 26, 1821, and emigrated to the United States in 1831, settling in Harrisburg, Pa. the first year. In 1833 he moved to Louisville, Ky., but remained there but a short time, as in the same year his father purchased a farm in Clark county, Ind., and the family moved there.

His father, being a moulder of iron and brass, took a contract for a rolling mill at Nashville, Tenn., and in 1834 and 1835 father and son went to the Mount Vernon furnaces, forty miles below Nashville, to make the castings.

Was Scene of Battle.

The landing at this place on the Cumberland river was the place where the battle of Fort Donaldson was fought during the civil war.

Mr. Morgan's diary continues: "In 1836 my father took another contract

There had been much blasting in the subway during the morning.

SHE CONTINUES TO IMPROVE

Injured DeKalb Woman Able To Indicate That Food Pleases Her

DeKalb, Sept. 22—News from Mrs. Harley Platt was most encouraging and the relatives and physicians who have been in charge of the case feel that there is now hope for her recovery. Though Mrs. Platt is not yet able to speak, she managed today to make her people understand what food pleased her and she is brighter and quieter.

Since the auto accident at Ashton nearly three weeks ago Mrs. Platt has been unconscious and it was feared that she would never regain her health or senses, but the change in her condition makes everyone concerned feel more hopeful, and it is surely good news to the friends of Mrs. Platt and her family.

CHICAGO ROAD AND HARMON HIGHWAY GET IMPROVEMENT

SUPERVISORS FINALLY REACH
END OF DELIBERATIONS ON MIGHTY QUESTION.

COUNTY TO BORROW FROM BANKS

Funds Are Running Low and Treasurer Is Empowered To Borrow Money.

The proposition of adding to the acreage of land for the county home was deferred at the session of the board of supervisors this morning until the December meeting. The county home committee has secured a proposition from Henry Shippert to purchase 42½ acres of land adjoining the county farm on the east for $7,500. Of his sum $1000 was to be paid down and the remainder March 1.

The matter of designating the road on which state aid work should be done the coming year was taken up this morning. In the report of the road and bridge committee yesterday they recommended that the type of road to be built next year should either be rock macadam or gravel and they asked that estimates be secured for this class of work. After the reading of the minutes of yesterday's proceedings Supervisor Sterling objected to approving the report and wanted estimates on brick and concrete also secured. This brought out a little discussion but the motion finally carried. It is likely that before the board adjourns a motion will be made to rescind the action taken on the report and have it amended to include estimates for the brick and concrete road ways.

The committee further recommended that the proposed state aid work

RIDING ON WALKS IS EXPENSIVE

Frank Lievan was arrested on a similar charge and given the same penalty.

DEAD BODY LAY TWO WEEKS UNDISCOVERED

BADLY DECOMPOSED BODY OF ROCKFORD WOMAN FOUND IN A CHAIR.

WAS SEEN LAST ON SEPT. 8

(Special to Telegraph)

Rockford, Sept. 22—The badly decomposed body of Miss Tilda O. Anderson was found reclining in a chair in the room she occupied over the rear of the McNair drug store, corner of West State and Church streets, yesterday shortly after 5 p. m. by Officer J. H. Prial, who forced in the door on complaint of Dr. F. J. Weld, occupant of the front office, who had noticed a disagreeable odor.

Officer Prial found the remains of the aged woman in a rocking chair and she had evidently had a broom in her hand when she sat down for a rest which proved to be eternal. Coroner M. H. McAllister was summoned to take charge of the remains, which were in such an advanced state of decomposition as to be almost unrecognizable. The coroner impaneled a jury and will hold an inquest today.

Coroner Investigates.

Investigation by Coroner McAllister revealed that the last person known to have seen Miss Anderson alive was Mrs. W. C. Poole, who gave her some sewing to do Wednesday, Sept. 8th. About a week later Mrs. Poole called to see about the work and finding the door locked slipped her card under the door. She now recalls that she noticed a disagreeable odor about the premises. The coroner is of the opinion that death occurred Sept. 8 or 9, from natural causes.

FINED FOR ASSAULT.

Thomas Liggett was arrested last evening on complaint of George Teal on the charge of assault and battery, and his morning before Judge Hanenken pleaded guilty and was fined $3 and costs.

PEOPLE ENTHUSIASTIC IN DEMONSTRATIONS IN FAVOR OF GOVERNMENT.

GERMANS CAPTURE OSTROW CITY

Escape of Russian Forces From Hindenburg's Efforts Is Confirmed Today.

(Associated Press)

Bulgaria is apparently on the brink of war, according to dispatches from Sofia dated Monday, which state that it is generally believed that hostilities are imminent and that the military authorities have taken possession of the railways, stopping all ordinary traffic. The territory ceded to Bulgaria by Turkey, will be occupied October 9.

People Favor Government

Reports from many parts of Bulgaria tell of enthusiastic popular demonstrations in favor of the government.

Can't Stop Entrance.

None of the entente representatives at Sofia can longer hope, it is said, to prevent Bulgaria joining Germany and Austria-Hungary. It is also plain that Bulgaria will take any steps that are necessary to incorporate Macedonia within her borders.

It is reported that a number of cavalry regiments have left Sofia for an unknown destination.

Ostrow Is Captured.

HEALER GOT SOME EASY MONEY

Sterling Paper Says Dr. Hawkins Collected Before Leaving.

Sterling Standard: It is not known how much money Healer Hawkins got here yesterday, but it is believed it is considerable, for after he left the city on the fly quite a number of his victims called on the police and asked the officials to get their five dollars back.

It appears that the healer first demanded $25 for treatments, and then dropped to $5.

Quite a number of fellows gave him the $5 and it was this sum that they wanted back.

Seven Indicted By Grand Jury Report Today

None Of Defendants In Custody
Docket Called This Morning

The grand jury completed their work at 10 o'clock this morning and after turning over their findings to the court were discharged. They returned seven true bills covering various offenses. As none of the offenders are in custody the indictments will not be made public until later. The jury visited the county jail this morning and reported finding everything in excellent shape and also commended the manner in which Janitor George Eichenberg was looking after the county property at the court house.

The docket was called this forenoon in court and a large number of cases were placed on the trial list for the term. In a few cases where no action had been taken to dispose of the case in the past three years, they were stricken from the docket with leave to reinstate, on cause being shown. In the cases where the filing fee had not yet been paid the court ruled that it must be paid by the opening of court on Monday next or the cases would be dropped from the docket.

Late this afternoon it was announced that the following were among the indictments returned by the grand jury:

Robert Jones and Wm. Nelson, Dixon, burglary and larceny. Charged with breaking into building of Dixon Pure Ice Co. and stealing blankets and bedding.

Robert Jones and Earl Thompson, Dixon, burglary and larceny. Charged with stealing lumber from the yards of Wm. Greig and the Wilbur Lumber company.

Harold Heckert, Ashton, larceny. Charged with stealing auto tires from garage at Ashton.

SUMMER OFFICIALLY ENDS THURSDAY EVE

MOST UNSEASONABLE SUMMER
TO COME TO CLOSE AT 10:16
P. M. THURSDAY.

INDIAN SUMMER IS COMING

Dixon's most unseasonable summer is nearing its end. While yesterday, September 21, is generally conceded to be the beginning of autumn, summer will not take its leave this year until 10:16 o'clock the night of Sept. 22. At that time the sun will cross the equinox.

The sun passes the vernal equinox about March 21 and September 21 of each year. Warm weather is predicted for the balance of the week, beginning tomorrow. Some say Indian summer will soon be here. During the past few years it has been reaching this vicinity about September 23. When the hot days of summer gradually become cool, clear days, with slightly cooler but not cold nights, Indian summer is here. Others state that a sure indication of Indian summer is the hazy atmosphere, which comes after the first heavy frost.

$30,000 BUILDING PLANNED BY DIXON MOOSE FOR A CLUB

LODGE STARTS THE WORK ON SCHEME FOR HANDSOME NEW STRUCTURE.

STATE DIRECTOR SHEEN IS HERE

He and Judge Baunman Will Have Charge of Campaign For Building.

A handsome new $30,000 store, office and club building is in prospect for Dixon, according to Dr. Edgar Forde Sheen of Mooseheart, Ill., state director of the Loyal Order of Moose and a candidate for a state office on the republican ticket, who is in Dixon today investigating the situation.

Dr. Sheen stated to a Telegraph reporter today that the prospects were excellent for a consummation of the plan for the new building, which is the wish of the Dixon lodge L. O. O. M., and which, if results are satisfactory, will provide the lodge with club rooms second to none in the state.

State Lodge to Help.

Some time ago the local lodge applied to the state organization asking that $20,000 be appropriated for a lodge building in this city, the Dixon organization to add $10,000 to the amount. Accordingly Dr. Sheen and Judge Baunman, former county judge of Deer Lodge county, Montana, are here to help in the project.

Plans for the consummation of the desires of the local promoters include a doubling of the membership of the Dixon lodge, and accordingly a red-hot campaign, directed by Dr. Sheen and Judge Baunman, will be started at once. If a membership of 500 can be secured it is announced that the state lodge will have no hesitancy in appropriating the $20,000 asked for and a three or four story building will result, the first floor to be given to store rooms, the upper floors to offices and lodge rooms.

This presentation of good wishes and comradeship will be made in pursuance of a resolution adopted by a unanimous rising vote at the recent national encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans at Scranton, Pa. Col. L. C. Dyer, representative in Congress from Missouri and the newly elected commander-in-chief of the U. S. W. V., in a communication to Col. Commander-in-Chief Dyer also requests permission to provide an honorary and personal escort of 100 uniformed Spanish War Veterans for General Nelson A. Miles in the big parade. Gen. Miles is a past commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, having been elected when the organization was in its infancy. He will be honorary grand marshal of the parade at the G. A. R. encampment. General Miles was the highest officer in the American army during the war with Spain. He is also a veteran of the civil war.

Chicago Will See Monster Dry Parade, Saturday October 9

(Associated Press)
Chicago, Sept. 22—Plans are complete for Chicago's great Dry Parade to be held over several miles of the city's downtown streets, Saturday afternoon, Oct. 9, the 44th anniversary of the great Chicago fire, as a preliminary to the campaign of the Dry Chicago Federation to close the city's saloons.

The Federation is now at work through its various ward organizations obtaining the signatures of 175,000 voters necessary to put the question of a "wet" or "dry" Chicago on the ballot next April.

G. F. Rinehart, who managed the recent campaign in Arizona which resulted in that state going dry, has been engaged to direct the local campaign. He declares that the Dry Chicago Parade will be the largest pageant ever symbolizing a community's protest against the saloon ever seen in this country. He expects more than 50,000 women and children and 500 picturesque floats in line.

Practically every religious organization, temperance society, social settlement and scores of civic bodies have joined hands to make the parade a success.

One feature which is expected to attract attention is the red, white and blue Napoleonic caps which will be worn by every marcher. Each side of the caps will bear the Chicago "I Will" motto and this slogan:

"For a Dry Chicago. Vote 'Yes.' Chicago Dry Federation."

Rev. Philip Yarrow is chairman of the committee in charge of the parade and he declares that the procession will march rain or shine.

"Our people are not afraid of a little rain and there will be no postponement because of inclement weather," Dr. Yarrow said.

The Dry Chicago Federation was organized last January to conduct the local campaign against the saloon. F. Scott McBride is president of the organization and Waller W. Strong is secretary.

ACTRESS AND MAN ARE SLAIN

House Fired to Hide Murder of Creator's Former Wife.

Memphis, Sept. 22—Evidence of a double murder was brought to light when the bodies of Mrs. Margaret Favar, an actress, and a man, partially identified as J. C. Crowell, manager of a cotton mill at Greenwood, Miss., were discovered in an apartment here. Both had been killed with a hammer and the bodies slashed with a razor. The building had been set on fire.

Mrs. Favar married Crowell, the band leader and composer, here several years ago. Later she went to Los Angeles, where she started on a successful tour as the "Peacock Dancer."

Chicago Has Building Boom.
Chicago, Sept. 22—Improvement in building conditions in Chicago is shown by the figures of the building department for the first eighteen days of the month. They reveal an increase of nearly 100 per cent as compared to the corresponding period last year.

The automobile fire engine is the result of a successful effort to make something useful out of the joy rider.

It is the only machine which can roar through a city street faster than twenty miles an hour without causing the fool killer to get ready for an emergency call.

Automobile fire engines weigh four tons and sound like a runaway house with a machine gun annex. They are not as beautiful as a team of leaping fire horses, but they do not get out of wind on a hill. An automobile fire engine can cover twenty miles and attend four fires while three horses are getting their respiration adjusted after hauling an engine forty blocks.

Because of this fact, the fire department horse is following sadly in the wake of the buffalo, the cottage organ, the plug hat and the good old double-fisted political caucus.

Having a fire nowadays is a positive luxury compared with thirty years ago. In the last century when a house holder dropped a match in a wastepaper basket and subsequently discovered that his residence was getting red hot he had to run thirty blocks to the engine house and help pull on the bell rope.

Then he had to tack on to a long rope with the brave fire ladders, pull a hose cart back, borrow four cisterns and help pass water in buckets all evening in order to get the ruins cool enough to begin digging in the cellar for his wife's gold breast pin.

How different it is today! The proprietor of a conflagration steps to the telephone and calls up the department in two minutes and three cuss words. He then hurries down to the corner drug store in order to get cigars for the company and returns just as the head chauffeur is cranking up to go on to the next fire.

And the fire losses seem to be increasing instead of decreasing. This is because having a fire is getting to be too comfortable. The automobile fire engine should be equipped with a taxicab dial and the householder should be charged $1 a mile for all runs. This would make the average citizen as afraid of a fire as he is of a taxicab and the insurance companies would produce unlimited millionaires.

DEMENTTOWN DOINGS

By the way, we are interested to know what you do the first thing in the morning. Most people jump out of bed and get dressed—but still we note by a local newspaper (?) that some people have mighty strange habits.

And in a place where maps are so plentiful and free one would naturally think the discovery should have been made by this time that Grand Detour is not in Lee county.

The state geologist of Pennsylvania says the hoop snake does not exist. Guess he never drank any squirrel whiskey.

The Artificial Ice Assn. says that fifty million dollars worth of ice was manufactured in this country last year. And judging by the chunk we got in our ice box every morning $50,000,000 worth of ice may not be so much, after all.

You May Substitute Names.

"There's one thing about automobiles—a fellow can't drive then with one hand."

"George can," said daughter Mabel with more enthusiasm than discretion.

Sure Enough.

Little Mary was allowed to wear her low neck and sleeveless dresses only on very warm days. One morning she stood gazing at a photograph of a woman in a decidedly décolleté costume. "My!" she exclaimed, "it must 'a' been a awful hot day when that was took!"

ROCHELLE.

Rochelle, Sept. 21—Geo. W. Simons, Jr., a Rochelle boy who graduated from Boston "Tech" in June and is now a private assistant to Dr. Geo. C. Whipple, head of the Sanitary engineering department at Harvard and "Tech" received favorable comment at the Rochester convention of the American Public Health association which convened the week of Sept. 7th. More than 1800 hundred health officers of New York state and sanitary experts from all parts of the country had registered on the opening day when Prof. William T. Sedgwick of Boston, president of the association opened the session in Mechanics Institute.

The Rochester, N. Y., Post Express under date of Tuesday, Sept. 7, 1915, has the following to say of local interest:

"George W. Simons, Jr., talked on 'Refuse Disposal in Small Towns.' He said in part: 'The disposal of refuse in the small town presents a deplorable condition. No places have systematic, cleanly sanitary methods of practice—every application or tenancy toward disposal methods are primitive. Lack of interest of citizens existence of ample available ground for dumping, the now overcrowded living conditions, lack of co-operation and initiative are all factors figuring in the inactivity shown this branch of sanitary municipal cleaning.'

MISS HOWELL IMPROVING.

Miss Agnes Howell is recovering most pleasingly from the terrible injuries she received in Labor day's automobile accident. It will be some time, however, before she can be removed from the hospital.

6 TO 2 SCORE.

With Bernie Coss of Mendota, who at one time was under contract with the Chicago Cubs, pitching Pawpaw had no trouble in defeating the Dixon Home Guards at Pawpaw Tuesday afternoon, 6 to 2, and the series between the two teams is now even, each aggregation having won two contests. Lightner pitched for Dixon and threw a dandy game, but his support was loose, and when the ninth inning opened Dixon hadn't come near the scoring station. A rally which started when Duffy was hit, netted two runs. Curran scored Duffy with a single and managed to cross the pan with Dixon's other run on infield smashes by Shaw and Hogan.

given at her home.

Autumn flowers of varied colors decorated the living rooms of the house while yellow and white formed the color scheme of the dining room daisies and asters being used. The centerpiece on the dining room table was a miniature lake surrounding a castle with daisies and vines entwined around it. Place cards were decorated in hand painted daisies and the favors, daisy decorated engagement books, were cleverly concealed and much merriment ensued from the search for them. Each contained a poem and woven in its lines was the story of Miss Graehling's engagement to Mr. Emmert, with the date of the wedding, Oct. 6th, and the "At Home" date.

Covers were laid for eight and a three course luncheon was served. Cards and music formed the amusement of the evening following the luncheon.

Chancellor of Exchequer's Budget Calls for Big Tax.

London, Sept. 22.—Reginald McKenna, chancellor of the exchequer, in his budget speech estimated that the government's revenue for the current year would be £272,000,000 ($1,360,000,000), that the expenditures would reach £1,590,000,000 ($7,950,000,000), and that the dead weight at the close of the financial year would be £2,200,000,000 ($11,000,000,000).

Mr. McKenna proposed an addition of 40 per cent to the existing income tax and the taxation of all incomes of £130 ($650) or more. The present minimum is £160. Fifty per cent of all war profits above the amount assessed for the income tax last year will be subjected to a special tax, which works out at 60 per cent of the profits. Mr. McKenna estimated the revenue from this source in a full year at £30,000,000 ($150,000,000).

Another source of revenue is to be an increase in postal rates, which is expected to bring in £4,575,000 ($24,875,000). A tax of 33 1/3 per cent ad valorem on all imported motor cars, bicycles, moving picture films, clocks, watches, musical instruments, plate glass and hats, also was put forward by the chancellor.

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

F. C. Howe

On The Advantages of Free Ports

Mr. F. C. Howe, Federal Commissioner of Immigration, who is one of the best American authorities on marine commerce, in discussing the relation of free ports to the development of sea trade said in part:

"Ships will go hundreds of miles out of their way to avoid ports surrounded by a tariff wall. The only way, therefore, for a country with a tariff to compete in the shipping world with a free-trade country is to establish free ports at strategic points along its coast line. Germany has done so, and in a comparatively short period has built up a carrying trade which before the war was seriously threatening England's supremacy. Hamburg, one of the three German free ports, now ranks as the second greatest seaport in the world, its total foreign commerce in 1913 being only $6,000,000 under that of New York.

"The free port would offer great opportunity for financial operations, now made possible by the recent currency act. It would stimulate international banking, and would tend to shift the financial center of the world to this country. And America, by the logic of events, has become the natural center for the world's financing, just as London became that center several centuries ago, when it shifted from the cities of the Netherlands." But the financial center will only move to this country when it becomes a clearing house of goods as well as of money. For credit the world over is created by currently created wealth in transit or change so that our financial expansion is dependent upon the opening up of American ports to the clearance of the wealth of the world. A port should not operate to yield a return on the investment, but to develop the prosperity of the country." In recapitulating the advantages, Mr. Howe brings out the importance of the free port in developing our shipping and linking us with South America, Asia and Africa, and then concludes:

"The most important gain is the direct gain to America. It will cheapen commodities by bringing great quantities of goods to our doors for importation or export, as trade needs demand. It will stimulate the growth of exporting houses, which can hold goods for an indefinite period without payment of tariff dues (often equal to the cost of the article itself) for disposal to meet the trade demands of the whole world. It will upbuild international credit and shift to America an increasing and ultimately a predominant share in international exchange.

"Finally, America is the natural country to be the counter of the world. Its seacoasts face every other continent; it is the greatest of all reservoirs of raw materials and foodstuffs. In iron and steel and standardized production it is in a position to compete with the world. But international trade (and this is always overlooked) must be reciprocal. It cannot be one-sided. And credit balances cannot for any prolonged period be paid in gold. They can only be paid by exchange of wealth."

CURRENT COMMENT

Brooklyn Eagle: Balancing the results achieved against the resentment which such warfare everywhere arouses, it is evident that air raiding at the expense of civilians is about the poorest investment of German energy and German money.

Fort Worth, Tex., Record: The friends of peace in their Chicago convention, were foolish enough to declare that the idea of America being invaded by a European army is prompted solely by the avarice of armament and munition makers.

St. Louis Star: It begins to look as though the Allies have countered the German propaganda in the United States by getting enough of their sympathizers to join the "Friends of Peace," to head off the arms embargo movement.

CAPTAIN QUILTS LAND YACHT, SHIP STUCK UNDER A VIADUCT

DIXONITES WILL NOT SEE NOVEL AUTOMOBILE IN CROSS-COUNTRY TRIP.

Dixon people will not have an opportunity to see the famous "land yacht," a picture of which was recently published in the Telegraph, as Roland R. Conklin of Huntington, L. I., the wealthy capitalist, has abandoned the trip.

Mr. Conklin, who fitted out a luxurious automobile for his transcontinental trip, a machine equipped with all the comforts of home, including a shower bath, ice box, electric range, beds, couches, vacuum cleaners, electric fans, Victrola and an electric winch, deserted the ship in Indiana. With his wife, his daughter Julia and Miss Helen Zinsser, the latter's governess, he came to Chicago while the "crew" of the automobile is at work taking off the upper deck, so it may pass under a viaduct near Michigan City.

The transcontinental trip has been abandoned. Mr. Conklin will ship the "yacht" to Reno from Chicago and will then continue on to California.

PROPOSE TO UNITE TWO BIG COUNTIES

UNION OF PUTNAM AND LASALLE COUNTIES IS BEING CONSIDERED

Mendota Reporter Supervisor R. H. Hey of Tonica introduced a resolution to the board of supervisors Tuesday favoring the annexation of Little Putnam county, especially the three townships of Granville, Magnolia and Hennepin, to LaSalle county, the fourth township, Senawine which lies west of the Illinois river, probably will go to Marshall county. The proposition comes from Putnam county which finds itself in a condition which would make annexation to a large county very desirable. The county which has only 176 square miles and about 8,000 inhabitants, finds itself under the necessity of building a new court house at a cost of about $50,000 with a fight between Hennepin and Granville for its location.

The interests of the taxpayers would certainly be better taken care of as members of the great county of LaSalle.

The proposition would necessitate a vote of the people both in LaSalle and Putnam counties. Such annexation would make LaSalle county the largest area in the state. The resolution was adopted.

BANK FAILURE DON'T DAUNT

Winslow, Ill., People Wed Despite Funds Being Tied Up.

Winslow, Ill., Sept. 22.—Their savings are tied up in the bank of Fuller & Sons, which closed Monday, but Miss Caroline L. Loyd became a bride Tuesday. She married Charles Burdington just as it had been arranged. Miss Loyd, who is just twenty-one, was assistant cashier in the bank. Burdington's money is in the bank also.

Unshaken is the girl's faith in James B. Fuller, Winslow's "first citizen," who disappeared when he learned he could not straighten out his affairs. And the bride and former cashier's sentiments are those of Winslow. They are certain Fuller was not responsible for the crash, and have been assured by the receiver they will get 60 cents on the dollar on deposits at once.

COL. MORGAN DIED AT HIS HOME LAST EVE

for a rooming mill in Richmond, Va., and at its completion was about to sign a contract for similar work in Belle Isle when the panic of 1837 came. This stopped all business of that kind, and in 1838 father moved his family to Franklin township, Kosciusko county, Ind., on land he had entered in 1836.

His Young Manhood.

"Here my young manhood was spent, clearing the land of its immense growth of timber, splitting the wood and breaking the land for farms. On the passage of the Kansas-Nebraska bill by congress in 1854 I went to Kansas and remained there through 1855 and had a full taste of what took place from 1861 to 1865.

"In 1862 I enlisted for the Civil war and in August of that year was elected captain of Company K of the 74th Indiana regiment at Warsaw, Ind. I served as such until August, 1864, when at the death of Col. Baker in front of Atlanta I assumed command of the regiment until we were mustered out in June, 1865.

"On returning home from the war I sold my farm and moved to Warsaw. In 1869 I took a contract for a building in Aurora, Ill., and have made my home in Illinois ever since. Since 1874 my home has been in Dixon."

"If I Can Live."

The clipping of a poem, "If I Can Live," found in Mr. Morgan's diary, is especially appropriate in a brief resume of a life which was extended to its ninety-fourth year, and it gives a fitting insight into the ideals of one whose efforts were always for the best for his fellow men. The poem is:

If I can live,
To make some pale face brighter, and to give
A second luster to some tear-dimmed eye,
One throb of comfort to an aching heart,
Or cheer some wayworn soul in passing by;

If I can lend
A strong hand to the fallen, or defend
The right against a single envious strain,

My life, though bare,
Perhaps, of much that seemeth dear and fair
To us of earth, will not have been in vain.

The purest joy,
Most near to heaven, far from earth's alloy,
Is bidding cloud give way to sun and shine;

And 'twill be well,
If on that day of days the angels tell
Of me, he did his best for one of Thine.

Col. Morgan is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Lydia Williams of Denver and Miss Mary of this city.

KIDNAPED GIRL BACK HOME

Indiana Counties Aroused Over Autoist's Episode (With Demented One).

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 22.—Authorities of two counties are investigating the mysterious disappearance of Miss Belle Fidler, twenty-one years old, a daughter of Andrew Fidler, a farmer who was kidnapped early in the afternoon, her parents declare, by a mysterious stranger in a large black automobile. The girl returned to her home near Conroe, eleven miles south of here, several hours later, covered with dust and evidently having walked a long distance. She was unable to tell what had happened to her.

The girl is said to have been ill and demented. Much feeling was aroused by her disappearance, and a posse of farmers is assisting the sheriffs of Tippecanoe, and Montgomery counties in the search for the alleged kidnaper.

State Superintendent Potts Would Limit Insurance Risks

(Associated Press)

Monterey, Cal., Sept. 22—How to protect congested districts in cities from conflagrations was discussed today before the national convention of Insurance Commissioners by Rufus M. Potts, insurance superintendent of Illinois. He said in part:

"It is said that the greatest congested district in the world today is in New York City, extending from 14th to Chambers street and comprising 2080 acres. The next in the United States, in size and value, is in Chicago, covering 752 acres, followed by Philadelphia, 550 acres; Baltimore, 417 acres; Boston, 325 acres; San Francisco, 313 acres; St. Louis, 297 acres; Buffalo, 248 acres; Cleveland, 213 acres, and Pittsburgh, 212 acres. All other large cities contain corresponding congested districts. From these figures we may understand the gravity with which this subject should be considered."

"Elimination of the conflagration hazard in such districts is of interest not only on account of the dangers to life and property, but also because the conflagration hazard is the final refuge of the insurance 'combine' and applied by it to all districts of all cities under all circumstances and thus made the universal excuse for excessive premium rates and justification for the 'combine's' monopoly."

"It is to be deeply regretted that instead of trying to find a remedy for the conflagration hazard, the insurance interests ever industriously foster the idea that on account of this alleged peril the companies are entitled to the same sympathetic license and immunity from prosecution for violation of state and national laws, which is tacitly extended to soldiers and sailors because they risk their lives in battle or face the dangers of the stormy deep * * *."

"In past ages it was firmly believed that periodical outbreaks of cholera, yellow fever and other contagious diseases, as well as continual suffering and deaths from diphtheria, tuberculosis and other infectious diseases were scourges sent by God and could not be prevented. The conflagration hazard of congested districts can be more effectually eliminated than was the yellow fever and the every day fire loss can be as much prevented by preventive measures as deaths from diphtheria were by the anti-toxin treatment. The difficulty is not lack of knowledge, for modern architectural and engineering sciences have invented and developed ample and effective preventatives for epidemic of fires."

Mr. Potts discussed technically the conditions whose existence make big fires possible and the manner in which flames feed on the oxygen of buildings imperiled by fires in their vicinity. He gave two major measures as of "paramount importance" in rendering congested districts fire proof, as follows:

1. The protection of all elevator, shafts and floor openings by metal doors or wired glass and a similar protection for every exterior opening.

2. The installation of a complete automatic sprinkler equipment in every building in a congested district.

"Even a fire trap can thus be turned to a redoubt against conflagration," he said.

Mr. Potts suggested also certain reforms in insurance laws, emphasizing particularly a proposal to prohibit over insurance.

He thought that if property could be insured for only 85 or 90 per cent of its value that "arson for profit" would be prevented. He also suggested the publication and free distribution in each state of a plain written book detailing the causes of the enormous annual fire losses and the means of fire prevention. He added that such a book should be so written as to be available as a text book in the public schools. He urged the convention to take action toward starting an educational campaign that would result in the enactment of his suggestions into laws.

mands to be treated as a neutral nation enjoying its freedom of the seas, according to the statement made today to the Associated Press by Eric de Trolle, president of the Royal Trade Commission, former Minister of Foreign Affairs, and at present a member of the English-Swedish commission engaged in attempting to settle the trade dispute.

"Sweden cannot and will not surrender to English demands restricting her commerce," said de Trolle. "In order to help England in her industrial war against Germany. If she did this, not only would Sweden suffer industrially herself, but she virtually would become an ally of England. The last consideration is the more important, since Sweden is no longer to be a neutral nation."

"If she permits the transit of supplies between England and Russia, and joins in any attempt to prevent the transit of supplies to Germany she is becoming an important base of supplies for the allies and is at the same time really entering the war against Germany. Sweden's modest desire is to be able to carry on her normal industry and to observe a strict neutrality—which means helping neither side in a military or industrial way, to the exclusion of the other. In this point of view she differs with the United States, which is supplying England alone. Sweden does not consider this a real neutrality. Her position, from which she will not recede, is an absolutely neutral attitude toward all combatants.

Is Logical.

"It is logical, therefore, that we should hold up supplies destined for Russia while England's stoppage of our imports of raw materials interferes with our industry and trade with Germany. We are sorry that Russia is forced to wait for her supplies which have accumulated here but while our ships are being held in English prize courts, we think the action entirely justifiable.

"If it were only a commercial question, Sweden might find it possible to yield to England's demands, but since it is primarily a political question of not allying ourselves with either side, hopeless regarding the solution of our we cannot yield. We are, however, not dispute with England. Sweden is not unconscious of the English viewpoint or the necessity which compels her to adopt her present attitude regarding the shipping of materials to Germany. She wishes to restrict our imports as much as possible. Both our members and the English members of the commission have recently made proposals which may lead to a satisfactory adjustment of the question of restricting our imports.

Question of Exemption.

"There is no quarrel about the export to Germany of our own home manufactures or articles which are not placed on the Swedish prohibitory list—although England may think the export is excessive. But I may say without violating the secrecy of the negotiations which are still under way that the chief obstacle is the question of the exemptions which we are bound to make to our prohibitory export list in the way of special licenses granted to Germany. In order to get supplies which are absolutely necessary to us we must give in exchange to Germany some of the articles on our forbidden list. It troubles the English because we cannot produce statistics showing the exact amount and character of goods shipped to Germany under these conditions. The publication of such figures would lead to obvious difficulties.

"Moreover, we cannot guarantee, as England would like to have us do, that supplies will not under any conditions be sent into Germany. Not only do we suffer from not being able to get what we need from Germany, but we would then be partisan to England.

"As to the assertion that our imports have increased beyond our own capacity for consumption since the beginning of the war, this is not generally true. Our poor harvest and our inability to get grain from Russia and other supplies from Germany has, of course increased our exports from other countries. But even if our exports have increased we do not recognize England's rights to interfere with our commerce.

"Most of Sweden's exports to Germany are not articles directly connected with military affairs. England cannot ask us to cut down our meat exports to Germany, for that is one of our chief industries. The kind of copper and the thin hides which Sweden sends to Germany are not available for military purposes. Nor can there be any criticism of our timber and wood pulp exports to Germany. All these are products of home industry, and most of the things which we send to Germany are for the civilian rather than the soldier."

When the attention of Mr. Trolle was called to the fact that no supplies destined for Germany were arriving in Sweden and that therefore the question of allowing equal privileges of transit for supplies for Russia and those for Germany could hardly arise, he replied that that did not alter the case since if it were not for England's interference with her commerce supplies would find a natural transit through Sweden into Germany.

TURKS TERRORIZED BY BIG AEROPLANES

ARE HARDENED TO ARTILLERY, RIFLE AND MACHINE GUN FIRE

HAVE 'BLOODY MEMORY' OF BIRDS

Constantinople.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Although the Turkish soldier is hardened to artillery, machine-gun and rifle fire, he is still so terrorized by the aeroplane that the mere sight of one sends him to cover.

The fear of the flying machine is due, of course, to the effect of the bombs and darts that are thrown by the aviators, but there are psychologists among the Turkish officers who maintain that the fear of the man bird largely arises from the fact that men still carry the "bloody memory," as evolutionists call it, of the days when human beings were the prey of huge winged creatures.

But the aeroplane bomb has qualities of its own to make it a fearful thing. Unlike the artillery projectile, it has no trajectorial curve, against which cover can easily be obtained. In addition, although the scattered area of either the aeroplane bomb or the steel darts is small, it is in the form of a complete circle while the scatter area of the artillery projectile lies almost straightforward of the explosion. For this reason, an infantry position that is well protected against the artillery and small arms fire, is still open to attack from above.

Another factor that makes the airmen hold explosives of a sort that cannot be employed in artillery ammunition, owing to their great susceptibility to shock.

Most of the British and French aeroplane shells dropped on the Gallipoli Peninsula contained nitroglycerine, a mixture of nitro-glycerine and cellulose, the two making an explosive that is 98 per cent pure, which, in other words, is all converted into heat with the exception of about two per cent.

The shattering effect of this explosive upon the steel shell of the bomb is terrific. At its best the ordinary artillery shell flies into but a small number of fragments, but the aeroplane bomb is shattered completely. Its fragments usually show edges that are as sharp as that of a razor and wounds caused by them are deep lacerations.

The aeroplane bomb "splinter" has a shattering effect upon small bones, but hitting a large bone it will firmly imbed itself. The artillery projectile fragment hardly ever does this. The wounds caused by it are as a rule fatal or easily cured, while those caused by the aeroplane bomb are what surgeons term "vicious." While the artillery "splinter" owing to an absence of great velocity at mean distances, takes a direct course in making a wound, the aerial bomb fragment, because of its smallness, shape and sharp edges and greater velocity, literally plows a zigzag route through the human body. Were it not that the Roentgen rays make the location of the fragment possible the mortality from the effects of aeroplane bomb wounds would be appallingly great.

VEILED PROPHET VISIT TO COST OVER $50,000

Never Did Mysterious St. Louis "Ruler"
Spend So Much on One Night's Amusement as He Will on October 5.

FLOAT NO. 2. MYTHS AND LEGENDS.

TITLE FLOAT OF THE VEILED PROPHET'S 1915 PAGEANT.

Word has come through mysterious but absolutely reliable channels from the Den of the Veiled Prophet that he will spend on his thirty-eighth annual street pageant at St. Louis the night of Tuesday, October 5, and the ball immediately following it, between $50,000 and $60,000, the largest sum that he ever devoted to one night's amusement.

According to the Veiled Prophet's courier, himself a mysterious figure, who differs from most press agents not only in that his writings have genuine literary merit but also in that all his announcements are ultra-conservative, the total cost of a Veiled Prophet visit in former years has been between $40,000 and $50,000.

His Mysterious Majesty has been guided throughout his long reign by a spirit of the utmost generosity, each year spending his entire income to treat the public to one big night. Assuming that he finances his pageants by taxing his "subjects," his larger expenditure this year than previous years would seem to be accounted for by an increase in his following.

Twenty-two Electric Floats.

"Legends and Myths of All Nations" will be the theme of the Veiled Prophet's 1915 pageant, which will consist of 22 electric floats, each manned by a group of men in appropriate costume.

Besides the fair-sized fortune that the Prophet has set aside for the enjoyment of the people attending the St. Louis Fall Festivities of 1915, probably as much again will be expended by St. Louisans on various other features of Veiled Prophet Week, including the St. Louis Agricultural Fair, October 4 to 9, which is regarded as a revival of the famous fair that until recent years was held in St. Louis during the week of the Prophet's visit; the St. Louis Automobile Show, with its first display in America of the 1915 models; the Mississippi River Carnival, the afternoon of Sunday, October 10, with its parade of more than 200 decorated motor boats, speed-boat and rowing races, balloon ascension from midstream and other aquatic events; the Buy-in-St. Louis displays, whereby St. Louis manufacturers, jobbers and wholesalers, in accord with a proclamation by the mayor of the city, will try to prove St. Louis the foremost of the central markets of the United States; special exhibits at the Jefferson Memorial (home of the Missouri Historical Society), Shaw's Garden and the City Art Museum and a concert the evening of October 9 by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Another event of much interest to music lovers will be the grand opera October 11, 12 and 13, by the Boston Grand Opera Company in conjunction with the Pavlova Ballet Russe, under the auspices of the St. Louis Grand Opera Committee.

The Float Titles.

The titles of the floats of the Veiled Prophet Pageant will be as follows: 1. The Veiled Prophet; 2. Title Float, Myths and Legends; 3. The Second Labor of Hercules; 4. The Golden Fleece and the Argonauts; 5. Second Voyage of Sindbad; 6. Cyclops; 7. The Three Golden Apples; 8. Cerberus; 9. The Wooing of the Maid of Beauty; 10. Kambalu; 11. Pandora; 12. Cinderella; 13. Beauty and the Beast; 14. Blue Beard; 15. Good King Arthur; 16. The Star and the Lily; 17. Puss in Boots; 18. The Fair One with the Golden Locks; 19. Evangeline; 20. Hiawatha; 21. Rip Van Winkle; 22. Hansel and Gretel.

Theme of the Pageant.

"From Hercules to Hiawatha runs the theme of the Veiled Prophet Pageant of 1915," says the V. P. courier in his official prophecy. "The subjects have been taken from many classics of childhood—Fanciful beasts, terrifying giants and wicked witches in long procession will pass through the streets of St. Louis on the night of October 5. But with them will be the heroes who performed prodigies of valor, whose bravery was more than a match for the monsters of evil. Cerberus, the Hydra and the Cyclops lose their powers to alarm when with them appear Ulysses, Jason, Amiable Avenant and those other brave men of ancient times."

Not all of the myths and legends which the Veiled Prophet has chosen to represent treat of bloody deeds. There are Cinderella and Beauty and the Beast to tell of the rewards which goodness in the gentler forms may bring. In Pandora and Blue Beard is the rebuke of seeking forbidden knowledge. No people and no age are without their legends. The Star and the Lily is an Indian myth of mystic meaning. Strange relationships in this legendary lore may be traced. The Wooing of the Maid of Beauty is known by another name in the country from which it originated, Finland. There the title is Kalevala. This legend of the Finns has found its way down through the centuries to suggest the measure of Hiawatha. To remind this practical, workaday generation that young, prosaic America has its legends, the Veiled Prophet presents a scene from Rip Van Winkle.

Veiled Prophet Up-to-Date.

Insomuch as all large nations make use of aeroplanes and submarines, the Veiled Prophet feels that he can employ them without being in the least unmodern. The courier's description of float No. 1 follows:

"As belittles days of the aeroplane and the submarine, the builder has designed for the Veiled Prophet's thirty-eighth journey through the streets of St. Louis a combination of sky wagon and water craft. He has departed from the massive triumphal cars of former years. This year the Grand Oracle and the High Priests have a conveyance equipped for travel in the air or in the water. The motive power is no longer the gigantic sea serpent or the ponderous mactodon. Here are spirited horses that have wings for use when the command is to soar aloft and fling when the trip is by sea. Eagles perch on the tails of these strange animals. A silken canopy as airy as a parachute is the only covering. Dolphins sport on either side. Stars look down from above. Nodding flowers in the midst of light draperies form the background. Never before has the Veiled Prophet appeared in such a novel and artistic conveyance."

Description of Title Float.

The title float, a picture of which illustrates this article, is described by the courier as follows:

"Forecasts of the wonders to follow crowd the title float. The roc, that mighty fowl, which laid eggs that were fifty paces round and which carried humans more safely than a Zepplin or an aeroplane, is poised for flight. Upon its back is seated a young woman with tablet and pencil to record the wonders seen. Delighted children dance around and point upward to the woman on the roc, in anticipation of the legends and myths she will discover and tell them. In this day there are those students of child nature who earnestly advocate that myths and legends—fairly tales if you like that description better—should always be available to the juvenile mind. They argue with force that strange tales are most valuable textbooks. They rank the wonder story as more important in the early period of life than the multiplication table, the grammar and the geography. Why? Because the myth and the legend stimulate the imagination and that is the first step in education. If this be so, then the Veiled Prophet has prepared an extraordinary lesson for young St. Louis in this pageant of 1915. A monster with a sword such as Hercules might have wielded driven to the hilt in his head sprawls in death agony. A woman holding aloft the great star of hope rides a Bengal tiger, teaching that brute force must always yield to beauty. So much is there to be seen and comprehended on this title float that it will pass all too quickly."

DRUGS EXCITE YOUR KIDNEYS; USE SALTS

If your Back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

Mr. Comstock was seventy-one years old.

HESPERIAN CASE IS AGAIN FACTOR

Britain Officially Claims Torpedo Bits Are Preserved.

FIRST SUBMARINE EVIDENCE

Germany Has Just Reported That No Submarines Were in Vicinity of Disaster at Time—Great Britain Claims Assertions by Berlin Can Be Disproved.

Washington, Sept. 22.—That the case of the liner Hesperian might again become a factor in the submarine controversy with Germany was admitted possible in view of the recent developments in that case. The United States has not made any reply to the German note disclaiming responsibility for the sinking of the Hesperian because no positive evidence has reached the State Department supporting the theory that the liner was torpedoed.

It has just been noted, however, that the British government has officially declared that it has proof that the Hesperian was torpedoed. The British statement asserts that it has a piece of metal which fell on the deck of the Hesperian following the explosion and that this metal has been found to be a fragment of a torpedo.

First Evidence of Submarine.
This statement has not reached Washington officially, but it is presumed here Ambassador Page will take notice of it, and make application at the foreign office for the delivery to the United States of any evidence the government may have as to the causes of the sinking of the Hesperian. The ambassador's instructions are to transmit all obtainable evidence in the case for the information of this government. This statement by the British government is the first intimation that has reached here that any fragments of metal were preserved in the Hesperian case. The impression had prevailed here that the fragments referred to in the affidavits of the Hesperian's officers had been permitted to go down with the ship.

Says Occurrences Dispute Berlin.
The German disclaimer was based chiefly on the statement that no German submarine was in the region where the Hesperian sank at that time. This was made in a preliminary statement to the United States government and unofficial reports from Berlin assert that the admiralty has now heard from all its submarines and knows positively that none were in the vicinity of the Hesperian when she was struck.

The British statement on the other hand asserts that vessels were sunk by German submarines in places very near to where the Hesperian was when she received her death blow. It is also asserted in British quarters here that the captain of a British ship has reported that he was chased by a submarine on the very day that the Hesperian was struck and when he was in a position near that of the Hesperian.

Has Hesperian Bit.
Montreal, Que., Sept. 22.—Major Hercules Barree of a Canadian regiment, a survivor of the steamer Hesperian, exhibited a piece of steel which he said he picked up on the deck of the Hesperian following the fatal explosion. The major declared the steel was part of a torpedo and termed the contention that the ship had struck a mine "absurd."

"YOUNG" MR. MORGAN REPELS J. B. FORGAN

Chicago Banker Tires of Dangling on Outside.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—"Young" Mr. Morgan's conduct of the negotiations with representatives of Great Britain and France has alienated veteran Chicago bankers from the transaction, according to information given out here.

James B. Forgan, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, has left New York, "because he was tired dangling outside young Mr. Morgan's office door."

George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National Bank, is back in Chicago, a little less out-spoken as to the reasons for his return, but intimating plainly enough that "Young" Mr. Morgan's conduct of the negotiations has been far from satisfactory.

Bluejacket Among Those Hurt.
Springfield, Ill., Sept. 22.—James Bluejacket, pitcher for the Federal league baseball team of Brooklyn, was among twenty persons injured when an interurban train of the Illinois traction system was derailed near here. His injuries were not serious.

SUPERVISORS ADJOURN

next year be done on route No. 2, beginning at the south end of the bridge over Franklin creek, west of Franklin Grove, and extending west to a point where Nachusa township ends its proposed improvement of state aid roads known as route No. 2, the balance of the money now used on this route to be used in the improvement of route 15, beginning at a point at the end of the macadam road at the center line of sections 26 and 27 in Nelson township, extending east as far as the state appropriation will go. The four members of the committee who signed the report were E. J. Mannion, C. C. Buckaloo, I. J. Trostle and J. J. Wagner. J. P. Drew, the other member of the committee, filed a minority report favoring the expenditure of the funds on building a brick roadway along the Lincoln highway, starting at a point in the east end of Dixon township at the terminus of the road Dixon township is to build and for which a bond issue of $50,000 has been voted, as far as the state aid fund will build.

Inasmuch as the county funds are getting low and little money is on hand to pay orders as they mature a resolution was passed empowering the county treasurer to borrow funds as needed to meet these obligations, but not to pay interest to exceed 5 per cent.

On motion of Supervisor Buckley a resolution was passed that the town clerks in various townships be instructed not to issue sparrow orders in sums less than $1, and the motion carried.

Change Plans.
At the afternoon session of the supervisors Wm. Brucker of Sublette township moved to take from the table the report of the road and bridge committee submitted yesterday and reconsider it. The motion carried and the recommendation of the committee designating that a portion of the state aid fund be expended on the road in China township starting at the bridge over Franklin creek and going west to the Nachusa township line and the remainder of the money to be used in Nelson township on the road in township 25 and 26 was voted upon and rejected by a vote of 16 to 6.

Supervisor Joseph Bauer of Hamilton township then offered a resolution to expend half the state aid fund on route 14, beginning at the east limits of the village of Harmon and going east, the other half to be expended on route 5 beginning at the Chicago & Northwestern viaduct on the Chicago road south of the limits of Dixon and extending south as far as the money will carry the road. This was carried by a vote of 12 to 10.

Supervisor Edwards made a motion to adjourn until Dec. 6, and it carried as all the supervisors felt that they had put in a strenuous session in attempting to designate where the state aid road should be located and as to what it should be constructed of.
